

UNIVERSITY OF
LIVERPOOL

MANAGEMENT SCHOOL

Lecturer in Entrepreneurship

Grade 8

The University of Liverpool is one of the UK's leading research institutions and is ranked in the top 1% of higher education institutions worldwide. With an annual turnover of £465 million, including £89 million for research, Liverpool is the original 'redbrick' university and a member of the prestigious Russell Group, which comprises the leading research universities in the UK.

The University of Liverpool Management School (ULMS) sits in the top 5% of business schools globally. Formed in 2002 with a £12 million investment and led by the Director, Professor Julia Balogun, the School is well positioned to further enhance its national and international standing, giving particular emphasis over the next period to developing world-class research activity. AACSB accredited and with its full-time MBA ranked in the Economist top 100, ULMS has 150 academic staff who enjoy a strongly collegial, research-supportive, and intellectually vibrant interdisciplinary environment. Faculty within the School operate in three subject groups (Economics, Finance and Accounting; Organisation and Management; Marketing and Operations) but adopt a distinctive, highly collaborative approach, working in interdisciplinary teams which span the School and University.

The Organisation and Management Group within ULMS is now seeking to appoint a Lecturer who will help to grow the thriving entrepreneurship research agenda and teaching delivery. Candidates will possess a relevant PhD, or be close to completion of a PhD, in the area of Entrepreneurship and Family Business/Small Business Management and an embryonic track record of publications in world-leading or internationally excellent journals in the field. Candidates will be able to evidence future research plans demonstrating a capacity to sustain and extend the existing high level of output.

Candidates will also be expected to demonstrate a successful teaching track record commensurate with the post as they will teach in the undergraduate and/or postgraduate programmes. The School seeks excellence in all aspects of the student experience and for individuals with a passion for innovative pedagogies and the capacity to create and deliver new and highly contemporary modules.

To download additional information, and to apply, please visit the website of the Management School's recruitment partners Society by clicking here: www.society-search.com

For informal enquiries please contact Professor Ossie Jones (O.Jones@liverpool.ac.uk).

The University of Liverpool is an Athena SWAN Bronze Award holder and is committed to encouraging, developing and supporting women in their research and academic careers.

The deadline for receipt of applications is midday (GMT) on Tuesday 3rd January 2017.