

Introduction

Mozambique is a country in southeastern Africa. It has a coast on the Atlantic Ocean and is bordered by Malawi, South Africa, Swaziland, Tanzania, Zambia, and Zimbabwe.

Due to its shape, Mozambique has a varied geography with mostly coastal lowlands and mountains in the south. The government system is a presidential republic; the chief of state is the President, and the head of government is the Prime Minister. Mozambique has a mixed economy combining both traditional and market economic systems. Many citizens engage in subsistence agriculture. However, there is a variety of private freedom combined with centralized economic planning and government regulation. Mozambique is a member of the Southern African Development Community (SADC).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: D - A high-risk political and economic situation and an often very difficult business environment can have a very significant impact on corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is very high.

Business Climate rating: A4 - The business environment is acceptable. Corporate financial information is sometimes neither readily available nor sufficiently reliable. Debt collection is not always efficient and the institutional framework has shortcomings. Intercompany transactions may thus run into appreciable difficulties in the acceptable but occasionally unstable environments rated A4.

Strengths

- Favourable geographical position: long coastline, proximity to the South African market
- Significant mineral (coal, precious stones) and agricultural resources, and hydroelectric potential
- Huge onshore and offshore natural gas fields, massive investment in liquefied natural gas (LNG) megaprojects and new export opportunities

Weaknesses

- Weak diversification, dependence on raw material prices (aluminum, coal, gas)
- Inadequate port and transport infrastructure, limiting raw materials export capacity
- Banking system constrained by government financing needs
- Unstable security environment
- Weak governance
- Vulnerability to weather conditions: cyclones, drought, floods
