

Introduction

Uzbekistan is a doubly landlocked country located in Central Asia that borders the countries of Afghanistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. Uzbekistan has a varied landscape that includes a rolling sandy desert, mountains along the border with Tajikistan, and the Aral Sea in the west. The government system is a republic under authoritarian presidential rule, with little power outside the executive branch; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister. Uzbekistan has a mixed economy in which there is limited private freedom, but the economy remains highly controlled by the government.

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: C - A very uncertain political and economic outlook and a business environment with many troublesome weaknesses can have a significant impact on corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is high.

Business Climate rating: B - The business environment is mediocre. The availability and the reliability of corporate financial information vary widely. Debt collection can sometimes be difficult. The institutional framework has a few troublesome weaknesses. Intercompany transactions run appreciable risks in the unstable, largely inefficient environments rated B.

Strengths

- More resilient economy than the rest of Central Asia (more diversified, less sensitive to external shocks)
- Abundant natural resources (gas, gold, copper, hydroelectric potential)
- Youthful population (50% under 30)
- International financial support; state enjoys net creditor position
- Economic reforms (liberalization, privatization, diversification), credit development (42% of GDP, 37% to private sector), and public investment (electricity, transport, health) encouraging FDI
- Increasingly dynamic bilateral relations and negotiations for preferential trade agreements with key partners (Turkey, Singapore, South Korea, etc.) and an enhanced Partnership and Cooperation Agreement with the European Union (EU)
- Negotiation process to join the World Trade Organization (WTO) and an observer member of the Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) since 2020
- Improved relations with neighboring countries and good diplomatic relations with Europe, Russia, and China, which value its strategic position

Weaknesses

- High dependence on Russia and China (main trading partners, recipients of 80% of gas exports)
- Dependence on commodities, weather conditions for agriculture (25% of GDP) and expatriate remittances (15% of GDP)
- Limited manufacturing activity (16% of GDP)

- Weakly competitive markets (high concentration in key sectors) and, although on the rise, low share of the private sector in the economy (50% of GDP)
- High unemployment, lack of jobs leading to migration, low standard of living, large rural population and still widespread informal economy (58% of employment)
- Low financial intermediation, high dollarization, mostly directed credit, low bank deposits
- Slow institutional progress (corruption, bureaucracy, weak parliament, lack of effective opposition); inefficient energy sector constrains the business environment
