

Introduction

Guyana is a country located in Northern South America and is culturally part of the Anglophone Caribbean. It borders the North Atlantic Ocean between Suriname, Venezuela, and Brazil. The government system is a republic; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister. Guyana has a largely traditional economic system in which the majority of the population engages in subsistence agriculture, and available resources are allocated based on primitive methods. Guyana is a member of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: B - Political and economic uncertainties and an occasionally difficult business environment can affect corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is appreciable.

Business Climate rating: C - The business environment is difficult. Corporate financial information is often unavailable and when available often unreliable. Debt collection is unpredictable. The institutional framework has many troublesome weaknesses. Intercompany transactions run major risks in the difficult environments rated C.

Strengths

- Attractive prospects for investors in mining, hydroelectric power and agriculture
- Abundant offshore oil and gas reserves under development since 2020
- Member of the Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM)
- Transparent management of oil revenues through a sovereign fund

Weaknesses

- Dependence on natural resources (gold, bauxite, sugar, rice, wood and, above all, oil and foreign oil companies since 2020)
- Inadequate transport, electricity, education, and health infrastructure
- Low-skilled local workforce and mass emigration of skilled workers
- Sensitivity to weather events (hurricane-prone region)
- Inefficient public spending, corruption
- High crime rate linked to drug trafficking in a context of poverty and corruption (ranked 87/180 by Transparency International's Corruption Perceptions Index in 2023)
- Growing tensions with Venezuela related to the dispute over the Essequibo region
