Introduction

The country of Honduras is located in Central America bordering the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Fonseca. Neighboring countries include Guatemala, El Salvador, and Nicaragua. The Honduran territory consists mainly of mountains, with narrow plains along the coasts, the undeveloped lowland jungle La Mosquitia region in the northeast, and the populated lowland Sula valley in the northwest. The government system is a presidential republic; the chief of state and head of government is the president. Honduras has a mixed economic system which includes a variety of emerging private freedom, combined with centralized economic planning and government regulation.

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: C - A very uncertain political and economic outlook and a business environment with many troublesome weaknesses can have a significant impact on corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is high.

Business Climate rating: C - The business environment is difficult. Corporate financial information is often unavailable and when available often unreliable. Debt collection is unpredictable. The institutional framework has many troublesome weaknesses. Intercompany transactions run major risks in the difficult environments rated C.

Strengths

- Privileged relationship with the United States (preferential trade agreement, military presence)
- Agricultural resources
- Support from international donors

Weaknesses

- Dependence on the US economy (exports, FDI and expatriate remittances)
- Dependence on fuel and grain imports
- High crime and corruption against a backdrop of poverty, food insecurity and drug trafficking
- High informality of the economy: 70% of the working population is affected
- Fiscal resources still too low (16.9% of GDP in 2020)
