

Introduction

Hungary is a landlocked country in Central Europe bordering Austria, Croatia, Romania, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, and Ukraine. Hungary's landscape consists of flat to rolling plains divided in two by its main waterway, the Danube. The government system is a parliamentary democracy; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister.

Hungary has made the transition from a centrally planned economic system to a market economy in which the prices of goods and services are determined in a free price system. Hungary is a member of the European Union (EU).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: A4 - A somewhat shaky political and economic outlook and a relatively volatile business environment can affect corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is still acceptable on average.

Business Climate rating: A3 - The business environment is relatively good. Although not always available, corporate financial information is usually reliable. Debt collection and the institutional framework may have some shortcomings. Intercompany transactions may run into occasional difficulties in the otherwise secure environments rated A3.

Strengths

- EU member
- Diversified economy, strategically positioned in Europe
- Integrated within the European supply chain (automotive, electronics, pharmaceuticals & medical technology, ICT, food)
- High-quality infrastructure
- Low corporate taxation and competitive production costs
- Generally positive payment behavior

Weaknesses

- Durably high dependence on Russian gas (65%)
- Lack of external trade diversification
- Regional disparities; lack of workforce mobility
- Exchange rate vulnerability (-8% vs EUR in 2024)
- Low levels of innovation and R&D; high proportion of imported inputs in exports
- Dispute with the EU over the rule of law
