

Introduction

Iraq is a country in the Middle East bordering the Persian Gulf. Neighboring countries include Iran, Jordan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Syria, and Turkey. Iran has a strategic location on Shatt al Arab waterway and at the head of the Persian Gulf. Two major rivers, the Tigris and Euphrates, run through the center of Iraq, flowing from northwest to southeast. The government system is a parliamentary republic; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister. Iraq has a mixed economic system which includes some private freedom, combined with weak centralized economic planning and government regulation. Iraq is a member of the League of Arab States (Arab League).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: E - The highest-risk political and economic situation and the most difficult business environment. Corporate default is likely.

Business Climate rating: E - The highest possible risk in terms of business climate. Due to a lack of available financial information and an unpredictable legal system, doing business in this country is extremely difficult.

Strengths

- Huge oil reserves (10% of world reserves, fourth-largest proven crude oil reserves in the world, second-largest OPEC producer and fourth-largest producer worldwide)
- Low oil extraction costs
- Strong growth in the labor force
- International financial support (IMF and bilateral loans)

Weaknesses

- Under-diversified economy and highly dependent on the oil sector
- Small GDP share of non-oil and gas private sector
- Low public investment, resources focused on salaries, pensions, subsidies, and social aid
- Weak and limited banking sector
- Severe tensions between the ruling Shia majority and the rest of the population, including Sunnis and Kurds, with frequent demonstrations
- Tensions with autonomous Kurdistan, a major contributor to the oil sector
- High inequalities, especially between those with access to oil resources and those without
- Deficiencies in institutions, as well as in education, health, and welfare systems
- Widespread corruption, nepotism, and patronage
