

Introduction

Suriname is a country located in Northern South America bordering the North Atlantic Ocean. Neighboring countries include Brazil, French Guinea, and Guyana. Suriname's geography includes rainforests, savanna, coastal swamps, and two mountain ranges: the Bakhuis and Van Asch Van Wijck Mountains. The government system is a constitutional democracy; the chief of state and head of government is the president. Suriname has a mixed economic system, but private-sector development is hampered by the government's presence in the economy. Suriname is a member of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: D - A high-risk political and economic situation and an often very difficult business environment can have a very significant impact on corporate payment behavior. Corporate default probability is very high.

Business Climate rating: C - The business environment is difficult. Corporate financial information is often unavailable and when available often unreliable. Debt collection is unpredictable. The institutional framework has many troublesome weaknesses. Intercompany transactions run major risks in the difficult environments rated C.

Strengths

- Mineral resources (gold, oil, gas, bauxite) and agricultural (rice, bananas), forestry (wood) and hydroelectric potential
- Ecuadorian forest covering 95% of the country
- Support from international lenders and foreign investors
- Financial aid from the Netherlands, the former colonial power, and expatriate remittances
- Active member of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM)

Weaknesses

- Undiversified economy: dependent on gold, oil and aluminium
- Size of the informal economy (30% of GDP) with casinos, gold panning, smuggling and drug trafficking
- Difficulties in managing public companies
- Inadequate transport infrastructure (roads, ports, air)
- Challenging business climate, inefficient justice system
- Vulnerable banking sector: high proportion of bad loans and low profitability
- Difficult access to credit
- Lack of skilled labour
