Introduction

Syria is a country in the Middle East bordering the Mediterranean Sea. Neighboring countries include Iraq, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon, and Turkey. The geography of Syria is primarily semiarid and desert plateau with a double mountain belt in the west. The government system is a republic under authoritarian regime; the chief of state is the president, and the head of government is the prime minister. Syria has a mixed economy in which there is limited private freedom but the economy remains highly controlled by the government. Syria is a member of the League of Arab States (Arab League).

Risk Assessment (Provided by Coface)

Country rating: E - The highest-risk political and economic situation and the most difficult business environment. Corporate default is likely.
Business Climate rating: E - The highest possible risk in terms of business climate. Due to a lack of available financial information and an unpredictable legal system, doing business in this country is extremely difficult.

Strengths
- Geostrategic position
- Financial support from Russia, Iran and China
- Hydrocarbon potential

Weaknesses
- Ongoing civil war since 2011 has caused hundreds of thousands of deaths, millions of refugees, and destruction of much of the country’s productive tissue including manufacturing, energy and agricultural infrastructure
- Dire economic, social, and security conditions
- Loss of long-term human capital, severely damaged economic balances
- Divided territory, under the control of different armed groups
- International isolation and sanctions
